Ms. Airheart is a local professional who lives and works in ACC's service area. She has a strong affinity for community colleges, higher education, and facilitating greater access and success for students of color. She attended a community college, has worked in the field, and possess a graduate degree in adult learning and education. In addition, her work experience in economic development is strong and diverse. I believe ACC would benefit greatly from her experience, insights, and counsel in working to improve outcomes for our students and our communities.
