

William & Mary
Board of Visitors, Academic Affairs Committee
April 20, 2023

Award of Tenure

DAVID A. YALOF, Vice Provost for Academic Affairs, effective January 10, 2023
Proposed for Tenure: Professor of Government

EDUCATION

Ph.D., Johns Hopkins University, 1997
J.D., University of Virginia, 1991
B.A. University of Virginia, 1988

PROFESSIONAL EXPERIENCE

William & Mary
Vice Provost for Academic Affairs, 2023

University of Connecticut
Department Head, Political Science, 2013-2022
Professor, 2012-2022
Director of Undergraduate Studies, 2011-2013
Director of Curriculum Development, Office of the Provost, 2005-2007
Assistant Professor, 2003-2012
Assistant Professor, 1997-2003

Trinity College
Assistant to the President, 2004-2005
Fellow, American Council on Education, 2004-2005
Assistant Director, Trinity Cornerstones Strategic Planning Process, 2004-2005

Jones, Day, Reavis & Pogue, Washington, D.C.
Attorney at Law, 1991-1994

TEACHING

- Syllabi reflect the careful design of an accomplished scholar.
- Course sizes ranged from 20 students to just under 200 students; student comments overwhelmingly enthusiastic
- Student evaluations exceeded 4.0 out of a 5-point scale, and usually the scores were closer to the higher level

RESEARCH

- 7 books; 65 articles; also book chapters, presentations.
- Reviewer comments: In my view, Professor Yalof clearly merits the rank of Professor at your institution, and at any other. He is a leading scholar of presidency-court relations and a significant scholar of public attitudes toward the First Amendment. His scholarly work is rich in rigorous research and insights, has contributed major and timely analyses across the discipline in all the appropriate outlets. Professor Yalof's record shows that he is a productive scholar with diverse research interests.

SERVICE

- Teaching Mentor
- Director of Undergraduate Studies
- Department Head of Political Science

WANJIRU G. MBURE, Assistant Dean for Diversity, Equity & Inclusion, August 10, 2022

Proposed for Tenure: Associate Professor of English and Film & Media Studies

EDUCATION

Ph.D., University of Missouri, 2011

M.A., Ohio University, 2007

B.A., Daystar University, Kenya, 2004

EXPERIENCES

William & Mary

Assistant Dean, Diversity, Equity & Inclusion, Arts & Sciences, 2022

Stonehill College

Professor, 2023

Associate Professor, 2017- 2023

Faculty Program Director, Integrating Demographic Education at Stonehill (IDEAS), 2020-2022

Assistant Professor, 2011-2017

TEACHING

- 12 different courses, also independent directed studies and capstone/honors projects
- Student evaluations generally favorable or very favorable about the quality of instruction
- A record of continuing development and an accomplished teacher.

RESEARCH [Note current position is as a full-time administrator]

- 4 articles, 3 book chapters, book manuscript; grants, including the 2019 prestigious National Endowment for the Humanities Summer Stipend for archival research and the writing of her monograph.
- Reviewer comments: Through her research output, Dr. Mbure has made significant contributions to the field of media effects by examining the transnational role of magazines in promoting body dissatisfaction. The impact of Dr. Mbure's scholarly output has progressively received recognition as she advances in her academic career. These deliverables demonstrate an active scholar who embraces continuous learning and reflexive scholarship. Without a doubt, Dr. Mbure demonstrates potential for noteworthy future scholarship. I am deeply envious of her impressive research productivity in light of the demands of teaching, advising, and service at a liberal arts college.

SERVICE

- Extensive DEI work – at Stonehill founded the Faculty of Color Association
- Institutional Diversity Action Committee