The International Council for Veterinary Assessment (ICVA) is seeking individuals with an interest in assessment to volunteer for the ICVA Academic Veterinary Assessment Committee (AVAC).

The AVAC works to identify existing assessment and measurement resources within academic veterinary medicine, identify areas of opportunity where the ICVA can support veterinary education, facilitate best practices for assessment across veterinary educational programs, provide granting opportunities in veterinary assessment to support best practices and the assessment research literature, and facilitate opportunities for assessment collaboration across veterinary academia.

If you are passionate about assessment and have an interest in joining like-minded individuals, the AVAC invites you to submit a brief letter of intent and CV to Jeanne Blasewitz by December 6, 2024.

Download the nomination letter from Kristin P. Chaney, DVM, DACVIM, DACVECC.

Nominations must be received by December 6, 2024.

Please forward this email to individuals who may be interested in volunteering for the ICVA.

Interested veterinary educators, veterinarians, or associations are invited to nominate individuals. Self-nominations are also welcome. Those interested in learning more about the AVAC positions should contact Jeanne Blasewitz at jblasewitz@icva.net.
